Biography

Heather Russell Fine is a Member of Griesing Law, LLC in the Firm's Litigation and Dispute Resolution practice group. She is an experienced civil litigator who has hands-on experience in managing all aspects of complex product liability cases from inception through to verdict and appeal. She also represents a variety of regional clients in litigation matters.

Prior to joining Griesing Law, Heather was a Member at Eckert Seamans Cherin & Mellott, LLC in Philadelphia where she focused her practice on product liability and mass tort defense matters, in particular in the representation of manufacturers of automobiles and automobile component parts, pharmaceutical manufacturers, and retail corporations. In that role, Heather was in courtrooms from Maine to Alaska for cases ranging from arbitration-level breach of warranty issues to complex trial matters involving claims of catastrophic personal injury based on allegations of product defect.

Heather graduated from Clark University and received her juris doctor from University of Maine School of Law. She is a volunteer for Philadelphia Reads, a nonprofit organization, in partnership with The Free Library of Philadelphia and the School District of Philadelphia that fosters independence in literacy through mentoring. Heather was also previously on the Board of Directors of JEVS Human Services, an organization providing adult residential and day services, personal care assistance, job skills training, career management, vocational rehabilitation, and recovery services.
