Fara A. Cohen is an Associate in Griesing Law, LLC's Copyrights & Trademarks practice group.

Biography

Fara first joined the Firm as an intern in law school where she focused on intellectual property and new media matters. She has expanded her practice areas by working on corporate litigation and employment law matters as well.

Fara is a recent graduate of Villanova University School of Law where she pursued a concentration in Intellectual Property. In law school, Fara was Co-President of the Intellectual Property Society and the Jewish Law Students Association. She was also selected to be a research assistant for her intellectual property professor. Prior to joining the Firm, Fara interned for a magistrate judge in the District of New Jersey.

Before law school, Fara worked for a non-profit biospecimen procurement company. Her responsibilities included operation, recruitment and maintenance of an international genetics registry and repository. She also provided support around all aspects of the development and maintenance of partnerships, including the establishment of procurement protocols, data collection and analysis, and project management.
